Structure

The Master of Arts in Sustainable Leisure Management is comprised of two primary components: An 8 month residency in Nanaimo for course work and an 8 month period for fieldwork and thesis research. Coursework will start in August with a two week foundational course for all students and end in April when students complete their final preparations for fieldwork and thesis research (varied locations). The MA SLM is modular in design, and has students focusing on one course for four weeks with a one week break between modules. The time between each course may be used for fieldwork and/or the development of students' thesis proposals.

Program Schedule

Field Experience

The field experience will allow learners to apply the lens of sustainability concepts and theories from the classroom setting to a "real world" setting. Learners will travel to, and engage in, a project where the theme includes sustainability and the opportunity to work with a diversity of stakeholders.

Career Opportunities

Graduates can pursue careers in government, private sector, non-governmental organizations, non-profit organizations, regulatory agencies, higher education, and consultancies. The position titles for the careers in this field include sustainability officers, analysts, managers, coordinators, and directors. Graduates will have a worldview of environmental, social and economic consequences inherent in the effort to plan, design, deliver and monitor leisure services at all industry levels. The curriculum strongly supports communication skills, analytical ability, critical thinking and problem solving ability along with a customer service orientation.
